

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 is an all-encompassing federal law that prohibits discrimination based on the gender of students of educational institutions which receive federal financial assistance.

Any person may report sex discrimination, including sexual harassment, in person, by mail, by telephone, or by e-mail, using the contact information listed for the Title IX Coordinator, or by any other means that results in the Title IX Coordinator receiving the person’s verbal or written report. Such a report may be made at any time, including during non-business hours, by using the telephone number or email address, or by mail to the office address, listed for the Title IX Coordinator.

All complaints will be reviewed to determine if the allegations meet the definition of sexual harassment under Title IX. Complaints that do not meet standards set forth by Title IX may be referred for consideration under the Student Code of Conduct, the South Suburban College Discrimination and Harassment procedure, employee grievance procedure, or other processes/procedures.

Title IX defines sexual harassment to include any of three types of misconduct on the basis of sex, all of which jeopardize the equal access to education that Title IX is designed to protect:

- Any instance of quid pro quo harassment by a school’s employee;
- Any unwelcome conduct that a reasonable person would find so severe, pervasive, and objectively offensive that it denies a person equal educational access;
- Any instance of sexual assault (as defined in the Clery Act), dating violence, domestic violence, or stalking as defined in the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA).
